Programme Title: One-Day Online Training Programme on the Navjivan Portal of the Government of India
Duration: One Day (1000 - 1330 hours)
Date: 23 November, 2026
Course Director: Dr. Manoj Jatav, Fellow, VVGNLI

1. Background and Rationale

The Ministry of Labour and Employment, Government of India, has introduced the Navjivan Portal as a comprehensive digital platform intended to strengthen institutional mechanisms for addressing child labour, bonded labour and matters concerning the exploitation of women workers. The initiative represents an important development in the use of digital governance for facilitating reporting, improving administrative coordination and supporting the implementation of labour protection measures.

The newly introduced Navjivan Portal succeeds the earlier PENCIL (Platform for Effective Enforcement for No Child Labour) Portal, launched in September 2017. While PENCIL primarily focused on the enforcement of legislation relating to child and adolescent labour, the transition to Navjivan shows an effort to establish a broader and more integrated framework for addressing different forms of labour exploitation.

The effective utilisation of such a platform requires familiarity not only with its technical features but also with the legal, administrative and institutional processes associated with reporting, intervention, monitoring and rehabilitation. Given the involvement of multiple agencies and stakeholders, there is a need to develop a common understanding of the portal's objectives, operational procedures and potential applications.

In this context, the V. V. Giri National Labour Institute is organising a one-day online training programme on the Navjivan Portal. The programme will provide participants with an understanding of the portal's institutional framework, familiarise them with its principal functions and examine its relevance to labour administration, enforcement and the protection of vulnerable workers.

2. Aim and Objectives

The programme aims to enhance stakeholders' understanding of the Navjivan Portal and develop their capacity to utilise its functions effectively for reporting, monitoring and facilitating institutional interventions concerning labour exploitation.

The specific objectives of the programme are:

- To familiarise participants with the objectives, scope and institutional significance of the Navjivan Portal, including its transition from the PENCIL Portal and the associated changes in coverage, functionality and administrative arrangements.
- To provide practical orientation on accessing and navigating the Navjivan Portal, including its reporting, monitoring and other relevant facilities, and to develop an understanding of the responsibilities of different stakeholders in reporting, verification, intervention and follow-up.
- To examine the role of the Navjivan Portal in strengthening institutional coordination, accountability and the effective implementation of measures for the protection and welfare of vulnerable workers.

3. Programme Coverage

The proposed training will address three interrelated dimensions of the Navjivan Portal. The first concerns the policy and institutional background of the portal, including its relationship with the earlier PENCIL system and the legislative and administrative context of child labour, bonded labour and protection of women workers. The second concerns the operational features of the portal, including navigation, access arrangements, submission of information or complaints, available tracking facilities and the procedures relevant to different categories of users. The third concerns the practical application of the portal in institutional settings, with particular attention to the roles of administrative authorities, enforcement agencies, civil society organisations and other stakeholders. Issues relating to coordination, information management, confidentiality and effective follow-up will also be considered.

4. Target Participants

The programme will be open to participants from a broad range of institutional and professional backgrounds. These may include officials of Central and State Governments, labour departments, district administrations, enforcement agencies, representatives of statutory bodies, trade unions, employers' organisations, civil society organisations, non-governmental organisations, academic and research institutions, social workers and other individuals engaged in labour welfare, rights protection and related activities.

Participation will not be confined to any particular professional or institutional category. The programme will be designed to accommodate varying levels of prior familiarity with labour administration and digital reporting systems.

5. Training Methodology

The programme will adopt a combination of thematic presentations, demonstration of the portal, illustrative case situations and interactive discussions. Particular attention will be given to enabling participants to relate the portal's functions to situations encountered in administrative practice and community-level interventions.

A practical demonstration of the Navjivan Portal will form an important component of the training. Wherever feasible, it may be facilitated by an official or technical expert associated with the Ministry of Labour and Employment or the portal's implementation team.

Participants will be encouraged to raise operational queries and discuss procedural issues relevant to their respective institutional responsibilities. Illustrative exercises will use hypothetical cases rather than identifiable personal information.

6. Resource Persons

The academic sessions are proposed to be conducted by resource persons possessing expertise in labour administration, labour legislation, digital governance and the protection of vulnerable workers. Efforts will be made to associate officials or technical representatives familiar with the development and functioning of the Navjivan Portal, particularly for the session devoted to its operational features and demonstration.

7. Programme Coordination and Administrative Arrangements

The programme will be conducted by VV Giri National Labour Institute in online mode. Dr. Manoj Jatav will serve as the Training Coordinator and will be responsible for the academic planning and overall coordination of the programme, including the identification of resource persons, finalisation of session content, coordination with relevant institutions and conduct of the online sessions.
