Dear sir/Madam,

We are happy to inform that the V VGiri National Labour Institute is organizing an Online Training on 'Capacity building Programme on emerging labour market issues and strategic responses' during June 8-10, 2020.

In the present pandemic scenario, understanding the recent development in the labour market especially in the areas of skill development, labour regulation, public employment service, and social security is significant for the better understanding of the economy. Acquiring the knowledge about the current labour Market scenario and the capacity building to undertake labour market analysis to learn the pattern and complex phenomenon of employment will definitely ensure the awareness and capacity building on the subject. This training programme aims to enhance the capacities of the concerned stakeholders in designing and operationalizing effective labour market and employment policies and thereby undertaking various policy initiatives.

This online programme is open to officers and key functionaries of the government, representatives from trade union, employers and civil society organizations dealing with labour market and the researchers specializing in labour market studies.

We request you to nominate participants for this important online training programmes. Brochure proving all the details of the training programme including modalities for nominations is attached.

Looking forward to a positive response,

Best Regards,

Your's sincerely

(Dr. H. Srinivas)

Online Training on

Capacity building Programme on emerging labour market issues and strategic responses.

June 8-10, 2020

Training Background

Understanding labour market situation in a country is the key driver for economic growth as it helps to understand the shocks and problems affecting the economy particularly during the crisis period. All over the world lives and livelihoods are changing in the pandemic, and of course, will reflect in the post-pandemic situation too. The neoliberal policies completely failed globally and ultimately resulted in unemployment, lay off and pay cuts. Moreover, the sustainability of each country depending on the quick response to the pandemic health threats and the chances and measures of the survival responses on the economy, the real challenging task. In this economic and health crisis, revival and restructuring of the economy through macroeconomic, fiscal, sectoral, labour and employment policies is need of the hour.

Consequent to the revival strategies, it is also significant to know the recent developments happening in the Indian labour and employment policy measures. Especially, labour and employment measures in five key areas, namely skill development, labour regulation, public employment service, social security. Various other debates on the labour market have emerged in the COVID situation such as work from home, employment insurance, reskilling and upskilling of employees etc. This training programme aims to enhance the capacities of the concerned stakeholders in designing and operationalizing effective labour market and employment policies and thereby undertaking various policy initiatives.
