ONLINE TRAINING PROGRAMME
ON
FACILITATING GENDER SENSITIVE ENVIRONMENT:
A BEHAVIOURAL APPROACH FOR POLICE PERSONNEL

February 22-26, 2021

V.V. Giri National Labour Institute
Sector – 24, Noida (U.P)

CONTEXT

Gender relations are often exemplified by asymmetrical cloud atmosphere which disperse specific prerogative and errands to men, women and transgender as per the belief of the social order. For instance, women might be anticipated to focus more on caring or domestic duties and linger close to dwelling, whereas men may be predicted to be the key wage earner, functioning outside the home, with greater autonomy to budge around in public places. It reveals a public-private dichotomy where, women are restrained in the unrecognized specialty normally amateur in nature, while men go out in the recognized sphere generally remunerated in nature. This results in widening existing Gender disparity.

Formal equality of treatment between men and women merely accentuated eradicating disability and shielding women. Later on the thought of 'Substantive Equality' was developed by articulating it in terms of women's own understanding rather than a evaluation with a male standard. Substantive equality thus provides a basis for recognizing protectionist measures to purge disadvantage and gender based prejudice's, without perceiving them as related to stereotypical attitudes on women's weakness and helplessness. The substantive equality approach recognizes that women and men cannot be treated the same, and for equality of results to occur, women and men may need to be treated in a different way. The challenge is to know when to take note of difference, and to decide on appropriate measures for different treatment that will facilitate equal access, control and equal result. Such measures will have to be evaluated to make certain they endorse sovereignty rather than shield or enslavement. This has to be done without compromising the aver for equal rights and equality as a legal standard. Apart from this we need to raise generation equal via shift in our approach while bringing up our children in our abode and school. For this meticulous behavioral upgrading is the prerequisite of an hour. One needs to recognize the importance of Emotional Quotient apart from Intelligence Quotient.

It is in this context, that the V.V. Giri National Labour Institute is organizing online training programme on FACILITATING GENDER SENSITIVE ENVIRONMENT: A BEHAVIOURAL APPROACH with the aim to improve Behaviors in terms of duty and responsibilities we human beings erudite from our surrounding environments while growing up as a person.
